WASHINGTON, June 7.—Congress was called on here today for the today, for the final drive toward the sine die adjournment, set by resolution for 7 o'clock tonight.

Disposal of the reclamation measure embodying recommendations advanced by the fact finding commission principal task on the program of both chambers. The proposal was attached by its sponsors as a rider to the deficiency bill which was ordered into conference yesterday and action it was held up in the house pending decision by the conferees whether to recommend its acceptance as an amendment by that chamber.

Farm bloc members also were ready today to make a last effort to get action on a relief measure, having centered late yesterday on the port bounty on wheat and wheat products until December 5, 1925, which, it was estimated, would cost about $15,000,000. The bill had been reported by the agricultural committee of both chambers and Senator Norbeck, Republican, South Dakota, in announcing that he planned to work for action on it in the senate today said enough votes for its passage by the house had been secured. The motion of Elmer A. Smith, Republican, Wisconsin, for discharge of the committee on audits and control from further consideration of the

tion during the recess of campaign contributions and expenditures also held privileged status today, with considerable opposition indicated on the ground that its disposal would consume too much of the remaining time. His fight last night for discharge of the foreign relations committee from consideration of the resolution to provide $10,000,000 for German relief was lost after several

Another measure having privileged position in the senate, along with the conference report on the deficiency bill, was a proposal of Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota, for an inquiry into the "deflation of commerce, finance and agriculture" in 1920, with attention directed chiefly at Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, also had announced his intention to press for approval of the majority report on the oil inquiry and among numerous other measures pending was the House bill to permit immiprior to May 26, 1924, to remain. Most of those affected are wives and children of American citizens or non-quota aliens admitted to the country.

The Hoch resolution declaring agriculture a basic industry and calling for an inter-state commerce commission investigation looking to a down-special reference to those affecting farm products was adopted last night by the House. Similar proposal has been passed previously by the Senate. The Senate last night passed a bill

ment reforestation policy in co-operation with the States, similar to a measure already passed by the House; the house bill setting aside a fish and game preserve in the upper Mississippi Valley; a bill to make up losses in pay sustained by the 23 bureau of engraving employees removed by President dering the federal trade commission to investigate the interstate shipment of cotton.

House action last night included adoption of a resolution instructing a mittee to investigate operation of the federal bankruptcy law and passage of Senate bills prohibiting halibut fishing in northern Pacific waters between November 16 and February 16, authorizing the Secretary of War to distribute German war trophies to cities and towns and preventing use of Both chambers accepted the conference report on the $14,350,000 legislative appropriation bill and it was ordered sent to the president.

OUTGROWING DISEASE

Perhaps the last paper written by Dr. Holt before his death last winter in China is a hope chest for the future of children suffering from the effects of one disease or another. Its title was "Outgrowing Disease." In it was the ability of children to recover in time from the effects of disease.

The author drew on his long experience to prove his points. He wrote of several people whom he knew in childhood with bad after effects of disease and whom he found in after years to be strong, vigorous women with no traces left of the conditions observed in childhood.

First he discusses the misshapen heads of newly born babies. While they frighten inexperienced mothers, these irregularities practically all disappear in a few months.

The early closure of the soft spots in the skull causes no deformity. Nor does the late closure of these spots. The chances are that pigeon breast and other chest deformity due to rickets will disappear before adult life if the child be given a chance to develop normally. Of course, symmetrical exercise and play to develop the great muscles of the neck and back promotes the straightening out of the chest deformity. The deformity of the chest due to pleurisy treated by operation in childhood disappears. What becomes of the bowlegged and knockkneed babies? The answer is—they grow up with straight legs. Bowlegs and knockknees in children are generally outgrown.

After whooping cough practically every convalescent child is wheezy—has emphysema. In a few years this emphysema disappears.

Dr. Holt writes of a number of children with severe Bright's disease and dropsy who eventually got well and had sound kidneys.

He tells of a series of cases of severe heart disease in children in his hands of his friends as well as his own hands who developed into sturdy adults.

Eighteen years before he wrote he saw a boy of 6 years with tonsillitis and rheumatism developed a very severe heart disease. When the boy was 12, he had a second attack of the same trouble. He had good care all the time. At 14 he was able to play tennis. He was later able to play tennis in a day and is a fine physical specimen.

A boy had severe heart disease at 8 years of age, but finally got over the acute disease. He was later put under the care of a physical trainer and a masseur. In his young manhood he was a widely known crack baseball player. He went through the war and became a major. He is now a lawyer with a large practice.

Cure for Seed Warts. Your correspondent who inquires for a cure for seed warts may be interested in the simple remedy that permanently cured mine. Wet the wart with vinegar and add baking soda to produce an effervescent. Let the application dry on. Repeat three or four times a day. Soreness is relieved very soon and eventually the wart comes off. Use the remedy on the cavity for two or three days more.

May Help a Calf. C. S. O. writes: Lardering a calf on the bottom of the foot with carbonated vaseline, if done early and often, will keep it soft.

Danger is the Same. J. L. J. writes: Are vegetables put up in glass jars just as dangerous or just as easily spoiled as in tin cans? Reply: Yes. In fact the first reports on botulism due to eating olives related to olives put up in glass jars.

The question is one of cleanliness and heating and not of the material from which the container is made.

Cause of Canker Sores. F. H. R. writes: To "A Subscriber," who asks what causes canker sores in the mouth. Canker sores develop in my mouth if I eat nuts or cheese, so I avoid both.

Any Grease May Help. S. M. A. writes: Will you kindly tell me if olive oil is good for the hair and scalp? Reply: To use any grease may help a little.

LITTLE GIRL HIT BY PASSING AUTO

About 9 o'clock last night a little girl, Enla May Gerrell, daughter of J. M. G. Gerrell, of Spry, N. C., was struck by an automobile on the North Main street hill, near the Salvation Army hall, and knocked down by the car, driven and owned by P. K. Shelton, a mechanic employed with the Crowell Auto Company and residing in Mountain View. The little girl, 5 or 6 years old, was not run over but knocked down by the motor-car. She was quickly picked up and taken to the Danville General Hospital where an examination tended to justify the belief that she has sustained no serious injury. The little girl had accompanied her mother to Danville on a visit to Mrs. Dabbs, a relation.

Mr. Shelton was placed technically under arrest and went to the residence of Mayor Harry Wooding, where after a preliminary ascertainment of the facts, he was released on bond in the sum of $500, which he promptly gave. The technical charge against him will be called in the police court on June 14th. The accident is said to have been one of those unavoidable cases in which children step into the way of an automobile so unexpectedly that the driver cannot foresee and hence cannot prevent them.

SILZER, LATEST DEMOCRATIC DARK HORSE

BY ALEXANDER HERMAN
NEA Service Staff Writer.

TRENTON, N. J., June 7.—A choir-boy who became governor now leads the field of Dark Horse Democratic Presidential Possibilities.

He is George S. Silzer, governor of New Jersey, and his chances for edging in on the rest of the field seem to be increasing as the wild race grows closer.

For Silzer stands closest to "Al" Smith, governor of New York. In the advent that Smith cannot put himself over, he probably will switch his support to the New Jersey governor.

If the presidential nomination is not in the offing, perhaps the vice presidency is.

At any rate, Silzer will be in the running—somewhere.

New Jersey's governor is a gentle man, who speaks briefly and quietly—but fights with vigor.

Six days after his inauguration he attacked a patent-paving ring, which had been fleecing the public for years, appeared in person before the Legislature, denounced the waste and corruption in road building, and summarily fired out of office a powerful Highway Commission—appointed by the party leaders who had helped elect him. A bitter fight followed. But Silzer won out.

The governor was born in New Brunswick, N. J., in 1870. After a public school education he decided to study law. But his family was too poor to send him to college. So he got a job in a lawyer's office—and learned his profession the old way.

When he was 22 he ran for his first office—alderman.

"I was drafted for the job," he says. "And I didn't have much hope landing it. For an old-timer was my opponent. And I was inexperienced."

But his quiet vigor carried the election. He was launched on his political career that eventually took him through all three branches of government—legislative, judicial and executive.

In 1906 he ran for the state senate and carried the election on an anti-bribery campaign.

In 1910 he came close to winning the Democratic nomination for governor from Woodrow Wilson. He received more than 200 of the delegate votes.

In 1912 he was appointed prosecutor of Middlesex county.

In 1914 he became a Circuit court judge and held office on several reappointments until 1922, when he was nominated to run for governor.

He conducted a vigorous, but dignified campaign, and continued his 1000 per cent political batting average by being elected by a plurality of nearly 50,000.

Silzer says he craves no political office.

"I would just as leave go back to my law practice," he says. And Mrs. Silzer is of the same mind.

She is a quiet, house-wifely person who would rather have her husband home for dinner on time, than have him busy at his gubernatorial duties in Trenton.

Each day he commutes between the state capital and his home in Metuchen, N. J. It takes him about an hour with the walk at each end.

This walk and golf constitute his chief form of exercise.

When "Al" Smith came down to Jersey for a little vacation, he took Governor Silzer on for a few rounds of golf. What the exact score was must remain a state secret. But it may be said, on the most reliable authority, that the Jersey governor swings an effective golf club.

GOVERNOR GEORGE S. SILZER.

But his son, Parker W. Silzer, a Princeton law student, beats him occasionally.

Next to golf, Governor Silzer enjoys a good sing. He sang as a choir boy in a Protestant Episcopal church, where he now is a vestryman. And his tenor voice can still be heard above the rest in all the hymns.

Governor Silzer wastes no words, either in his talk or writing. His veto messages are becoming classics. Recently in turning down a bill passed by the state assembly, he merely wrote:

"This act seems to be unnecessary. If civil service means anything, it means that the public should get the best. This bill would prevent this. I therefore disapprove the bill."

In vetoing another measure passed by the legislature he wrote: "I do not think this a time for further increase of salaries. I find no demand for this bill except from those especially benefited, and the bill is therefore disapproved."

This conciseness marks his political speeches, too. Yet the governor is no "Silnet Silzer."

Perhaps it's just as well that Gibbons didn't knock out the Frenchman. Then he'd have to fight Dempsey again.

INJUNCTION ORDER ENTERED IN SUIT

In the Corporation court late yesterday evening Judge James L. McLennore, sitting in the stead of Judge D. P. Withers, granted a temporary injunction on the petition of Harris & Harvey, attorneys for J. N. Moore, Inc., and J. L. Jennings, restraining Grady Crews and W. R. Harrison trustees in a deed of assignment recently filed by J. N. Moore, Inc., and other defendants from delivering to I. Schuster, B. J. Levins and W. B. Weinrock or any of them any of the goods or assets of the assignors. The defendants are also specifically enjoined from using the storehouse, lease or fixtures in the storehouse of J. N. Moore, Inc., until July 1924.

The case will then come up for adjudication on its merits and the injunction will be either dissolved, amended or perpetuated.

The complainants in the action gave bond in the sum of $5,000, pending the determination of the issues involved. The equity proceeding is the sequel of the recent assignment by J. N. Moore, Inc., to the trustees named of the stock and fixtures of the assignor firm for the benefit of creditors. Effect of yesterday's action is to stay any delivery by the trustees to the persons named or to others pending determination of the issues involved.

BABE RUTH FINALLY IS AMONG LEADING HITTERS IN AMERICAN LEAGUE

(By The Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, June 7.—Babe Ruth, who in 1921 achieved the honor of hitting out 59 home runs, has landed among the leading batters of the American League after a long chase. The Yankee star, threatening to challenge Harry Hallman, of the Tigers, for leadership, is batting in fifth place with an average of .367 a gain of 21 points within a week. The figures include games of Wednesday. He continues to swing his bat with the same effectiveness in driving out the homers, having connected with 3 in the last week bringing his total to 14.

Hallman still is best among the hitters, topping the list with an average of .404. A loss, however, of 21 points from his mark of the previous week. His scoring efforts were better than those of Joe Harris of Boston and he is leading the scorers with a 37.

Ike Boone, the former Southern Association slugger, playing regularly for the Red Sox, continues to hang on Hallman's heels with an average of .357. Hits of the Red Sox is 13 with 370.

Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox, failed to add to his base stealing record but his nine thefts were enough to keep him on the top of the list.

The hitting of Sam Rice of the Senators was one of the outstanding features. His clouting has been a big factor in placing the Senators at the head of the list in team batting with an average of .299. Cleveland is next with .293 and the Yankees third with .297. Rice went from a mark of .278 up to .338.

Other leading batters: Meusel, New York, .364; Cobb, .352; Williams, St. Louis, .349; McNulty, Cleveland, .349; Jamieson, Cleveland, .343; Sheely, Chicago, .341; Rice, Washington, .338.

Frank Snyder, veteran catcher of the New York Giants, has finally overtaken Rogers Hornsby, start of the Cardinals, for hitting honors in the National League. Snyder, in climbing to the leadership, has averaged approximately two hits a game, his average jumping to .408, a gain of 48 points. Hornsby, who has held the spotlight almost all season, suffered a 20-point drop and is trailing the New York slugger with .401.

Zack Wheat, of the Dodgers, and George Sisler, of the Athletics, first baseman, are tied for third place honors with .386.

Frank Frisch, of the Giants, continues to lead in scoring, his total being 41. Jacques Fournier, of the Dodgers, clouted out two home runs and is showing the way with eleven. The base-stealers did not show much activity. George Grantham of the Cubs, breaking past his rivals with eleven, topped the list.

Other leading batters: Bressler, Cincinnati, .358; Frisch, New York, .351; Fournier, Brooklyn, .346; Young, New York, .344; Gimes, Chicago, .335; High, Brooklyn, .334; Boston, .331; Grigsby, Chicago, .320.

CROOK SOUGHT THREE YEARS IS FINALLY CAUGHT

BUFFALO, June 7.—A wholesale attempt to defraud Buffalo banks was nipped today when James Collins, a long sought alleged forger, was arrested by a postal inspector and detectives.

Collins, who has a half dozen aliases, had planned to cash bad checks at nine Buffalo banks today. The inspector said Collins had consigned the checks on the local banks was found in his room.

A countrywide search has been made for Collins for the last three or four years. Thomas J. Henney, Jr., assistant United States attorney, announced that Collins had confessed to passing bad checks for more than $10,000. He is charged with using the mails with intent to defraud.

The ruse used by Collins, the detective stated, consisted in writing to an official of a bank, preferably a vice president, asking for an interview, saying that the matter was one that could not be stated in a letter. When he received the reply he would practice the signature. They said he would then take a check on an out of town bank and make it out for a sum ranging from $300 to 3,000, using the counterfeit signature as an endorsement.

When the bank he would present a check without endorsement at the paying teller's window and when it was turned back ask for the official with whom he had corresponded to advise him of the forgery. The official's desk talk for a few moments about the weather or some other subject, never mentioning the letter or the check, return to the teller and present the duplicate with the official's endorsement.

The nine checks to have been passed in Buffalo this morning were made out on a bank in Nashville and contained endorsements said to be in fact in detail as to the signatures. The checks totaled $20,000.

The inspector said Collins had worked the scheme in Nashville, Memphis, Columbus, Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, Greensburg, Pa., and Wilkesburg, Pa.

Many Improvements at Park Springs

With the announcement in yesterday's Bee of the opening of Park Springs Beach, many will be pleased to know that the management has made many improvements at the popular resort. The road approaching the lake has been widened considerably and every facility for the enjoyment of young and old has been added.

The steel, non-sinkable row boats have been much enjoyed this spring. For the year has been too cool for bathing. A new addition to the pool which will be erected in the next few days is a water chutney. The use of the latest devices to be added and will be enjoyed especially by the younger folks.

Park Springs Beach will be open to the public every day, all hours. In addition to the lake, a new swimming and boating "it" is announced that the fishing may also be enjoyed after the 15th. Good hotel accommodations are provided, best mineral water, refreshment stands, etc. The opening dance is advertised for June 11, music to be furnished by Westbrook Orchestra.

Program For Sunday Night's Union Meeting

The program for the special exercises to be held on Sunday night at Main Street Methodist church when Miss Margaret Maxon executive secretary of the Community Welfare Association will discuss the spiritual value of the organization's work to the community has been prepared. Six southside churches will join in this service which will be featured by special music by an enlarged choir. The opening hymn will be "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee." Dr. J. M. Sheburne will offer the opening prayer and Rev. Malcolm S. Taylor will read a passage of scripture. The choir will then sing a number during the offertory after which Rev. Samuel T. Senter will introduce Miss Maxon who will then deliver her address. The closing prayer will be offered by Rev. C. C. Garrison and the singing of a final hymn "The Son of God Goes Forth to War" the benediction will be pronounced by Rev. T. A. Smoot, D. D.

The numbers of the Senior class of the Oak Level high school gave a delightful play, "Cinderella in Flower." The stage setting and the scenery were especially attractive and the play was well rendered. A large number of people were in attendance.

GEORGE NELMS APPOINTED TRAFFIC BUREAU'S HEAD

The first steps towards the remedy of an evil long complained of by the shippers of Danville were taken yesterday when the traffic committee of the Chamber of Commerce approved the appointment of George K. Nelms of Chicago as head of the Danville Traffic Bureau. Mr. Nelms has telegraphed his acceptance of the proffered post and he will assume his duties here on July 1st, having quarters in one of the suite of rooms now occupied by the Chamber of Commerce.

Ever since the beginning of the year the Chamber of Commerce directors have been studying the local situation through the Traffic Committee with a view to procuring for the city a trained expert on rate structures and the complexities of freight rates the handling and mastering of which requires special training. Determined that such a bureau should be established to the city the Chamber of Commerce paved the way by appropriating the sum of $1,000 to be used in the maintenance of the office, the shippers expressing a willingness to pledge $5,000 annually while the city council has been asked to make an appropriation of $1,000. The finance committee at its meeting yesterday took no specific action on the matter and passed it by for a future meeting. This action however is not construed as being hostile to the undertaking. It is just possible that more than one thousand dollars may be asked of the council and the finance committee is waiting to see just what sum is required.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce have been in correspondence with several likely candidates and believe they have the thoroughly competent man in Mr. Nelms who has the best sort of endorsement from his former employers. He has been for sixteen years with the Trans-Continental Freight Bureau at Chicago and is described by the authorities of that organization as well as others who have seen his work as familiar with the peculiar requirements for this work. It is also recalled that Danville shippers had an opportunity to observe his work—nearly twenty years ago when the freight question was going into exhaustively and at which time agents of the Interstate Commerce Commission came here from Washington to hear Danville's complaint. Mr. Nelms represented the Southern at that hearing. Danville won its case on statements of facts but lost it on a technicality.

Thousands of dollars annually go into the treasuries of the railway companies through errors in freight bills. It is said that shippers run from $25,000 to $50,000 though the latter figure is considered excessive by some. In any event the careful checking up on freight bills, and the amount saved the shippers will within a year more than pay for the cost of the establishment of the freight bureau. Mr. Nelms will be paid a flat salary and the savings made possible by his work will be turned back to the shippers who have periodically retained experts on a commission basis who have kept half of the excess freight found to have been charged.

Not long ago freight experts from all over Virginia came to Danville to make a study of Danville's case and it was the opinion of several of them that there was a fine opportunity in Danville for a freight bureau because the rates which are fixed on freight coming into Danville is considerable.

VETS OF SOUTH SPEED HOME AS REUNION CLOSURE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 7.—Trains scurrying to every corner of the Southland today carried the hosts of the gray to their homes, following the conclusion last night of the 34th annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans and the annual meeting of the Sons of Confederate Veterans and the Confederate Southern Memorial Association.

The reunion, one of the most brilliant gatherings of the kind held in recent years, ended in a spectacle the like of which was never before seen in this city. The parade yesterday and the ball last night attracted huge throngs and furnished a climax for a week filled with a cycle of events arranged for the veterans and their sons and daughters.

As the veterans left for their homes today, they reiterated their declaration that the reunion was the "greatest" in the history of the U. C. V. They were unanimous in their praise of the reception accorded them by the city.

HELPFUL HINTS

COVER OIL PAINTINGS
Oil paintings should be dusted in the lightest and most skillful manner. They should be covered always before sweeping.

SOAK IN WATER
Always soak in cold water those vegetables that are not fresh from the garden.

Green vegetables will keep their color better if they are cooked uncovered.

ADD RAISINS LAST

USING TAPIOCA
In using tapioca or cornstarch see that the starch is thoroughly swollen and cooked.

ADD SALT TO MILK
In case of illness if the patient does not like plain milk, add a little lime water or a few grains of salt.

SALT IN WATER

Chatham, Not City Member, Referred to "Dry" Issue

It was Mrs. T. J. Fitzgerald of Chatham, and not Mrs. Nannie Estes, of Danville who, at the quarterly session of the W. C. T. U. held on Thursday at Cabell Street church, left the impression that C. K. Carter, candidate for mayor was "wet" and that Mayor Harry Wooding was "dry." Mrs. Estes this morning stated that she had expressed her preference for Mayor Wooding but had not raised the temperance issue, this being done by the president of the Chatham union, Mrs. Fitzgerald, whose assertions on the point were later challenged by two of the Danville W. C. T. U. members attending the meeting—Mrs. F. O. Kidd and Mrs. L. T. Hall. It was during a demonstration on voting that the remarks which caused a discussion were made. Mrs. Estes seized the opportunity to ask the body or such members of it as are from Danville to vote for Mayor Wooding but made no reference to the "wet" and "dry" issue, this being done by the Chatham member. The utterances were confused in securing data on the quarterly conference from one of the delegates present at the time.

CAN RENDER GREAT SERVICE

The nation should benefit to an inestimable degree from the schools in foreign affairs which are being established in many American universities for the training of future diplomats. Courses in international affairs are now being offered in Georgetown,
New York and Williamstown universities in the East and in several institutions in the West.

Johns Hopkins University is the first, however, to propose a graduate school for diplomatic training. It is especially fitting that this proposed $1,000,000 college of diplomacy is to be a memorial to Walter Hines Page, peer of American diplomats.

He was a diplomat by instinct rather than by profession, sensing with his keen and sympathetic mind the delicacies and intricacies of international intercourse, and, thanks to his devotion to the ideal of Anglo-American kinship and cooperation, fulfilling his mission with a success that has rarely been equaled by American representatives abroad. But Mr. Page, whose modesty was a part of his great strength, saw only too clearly that even he, with his wide culture and thorough knowledge of world affairs, was at times handicapped by his lack of diplomatic training.
As he watched the trials and tribulations of American diplomats abroad during the war, was sharply brought home to him.

To provide an increasing number of Americans fitted by training and study to participate in international affairs is the express purpose of the proposed memorial school at Johns Hopkins.

The proposed Page School of International Affairs can render this country a great service. There is need for men trained in foreign affairs. What better inspiration for students of international politics than the memory of Walter Page, and what more suitable place for such study than Johns Hopkins University, of which he was one of the first fellows?

SEEING AMERICA

Motor camping in the space of but a few years has become an American institution. It is the heritage of the greatest outdoor country from the "Forty-Niners" and the advance of the automobile. The tribe of the motor camper is almost keeping pace with the census. The automobile and good roads have made all wish to see
"America First" and then made it possible for all to fulfill that wish.

Last year 10,000,000 people in 2, 500,000 cars did this in the United States. Seven million of these holiday-makers visited the national parks.
No less than 60,000 motor campers found a welcome at Denper.

In the Middle and Western States
the number of municipal motor camping parks is estimated to be 4,000.
Portland, Ore., entertained 75,000 guests at its city motor camp last year. Tampa, Fla., calculates that motor tourists spent $2,000,000 there.
The merchants of the small towns profit by attending to the motor campers' wants. Little Abbeville, S.
D., took in $175,000 last summer.

In the East this outdoor movement started late, but is making up for lost time. Seventy-five camps have been established in New England by the National Recreation Society. Continent provides facilities and conveniences, including potable water in twenty-seven State parks. New York is playing host in the Catskills and Adirondacks. Along the Hudson Highway motor camps are springing up to promote touring from coast to coast. In many localities the visitor

An Almost Unbelievable Situation

Is the City Council above the law? Must all others obey while our City Fathers are exempt? Is there anybody anywhere whose business is to see that those in public office shall abide by the laws of Virginia and even the laws which the Council have themselves ordained and approved? The people of Danville have elected a body of law-makers who are lawless and law-defying. They write regulations that govern the conduct of others and utterly ignore then when they affect themselves. This is strong language but the records justify it.

The Constitution of Virginia, the Code of Virginia and the city charter all in direct and positive language provide that in order to be a member of the Council a person must be a qualified voter.
B. J. Hurd is admittedly not a qualified voter. The present Council in deliberate violation of law elected Mr. Hurd. Nothing is done about it, and Mr. Hurd now seeks to have the people approve his lawless conduct in this matter. Section 659 of the city ordinance is as follows:

Sec. 659.—No officer of the city or member of the Council shall directly or indirectly contract with the city or any of its boards or committees for furnishing it or any of its departments with labor, supplies, machinery, or other articles, or for doing any work for the city, nor shall he be interested in the profits of any such contracts. Any one violating this section shall be fined fifty dollars and, in addition, shall be guilty of malfeasance in office and subject to removal therefrom.

W. E. Gardner & Co., (not Incorporated), in January, 1921, was paid $182.50 for hauling by the city of Danville. W. W. Bowman in April, 1924, was paid $1,150 for four mules. W. W. Bowman is the silent partner of W. E. Gardner & Co. Guy F. Walton in April, 1924, was paid $42.00 for hauling.

Messrs. Gardner and Walton received this money in plain violation of the city law. They have used their official position to take money in the teeth of a provision of the law to the contrary.
By the terms of an ordinance in existence for long years and again approved by the present Council on March 12th, 1923, they have been guilty of malfeasance in office and have forfeited their right to sit as councilmen; yet nobody proceeds against them, and they unblushingly offer themselves as candidates for re-election to offices which they have already misused.

During the recent session of the General Assembly, the City Council paid the expenses of A. B. Carrington, W. E. Gardner and City Attorney A. M. Aiken, totalling $95.93 for the purpose of going to Richmond to urge the views of individual councilmen with reference to charter changes. We defy any living man to point to one line in the city charter which can be stretched to sustain the authority of the Council to pay such expenses. The City Council has no right with reference to the advocacy of or opposition to charter legislation superior to other citizens; and yet they have undertaken to advance their personal ideas and views, not at their personal expense, but at the expense of the community at large. It is a plain diversion of public funds for private use, unauthorized and unwarranted by law and contrary to the sort of ideals that should prevail in the administration of public funds. The city has the right to recover this money so expended. It belongs to the city, and yet the city officials sit idly by and permit this violation of law and shut their eyes. We defy any successful challenge of these facts. They cannot be met by sob-stuff and sneers at "practical politicians". No other Council in the history of Danville has such a record as this "Goo Goo Council". No defense for such action can be made except the sort of defense that was heard in some quarters in the oil scandal. If this is good government, God save the city!

ters, with the surprising result. Possibly he was color blind and thought and form the two words which should naturally appear on a sign of the type

The three boys had, respectively, 50, 39 and 19 apples. The first boy began by asking three cents apiece for apples. The other boys followed his example. But the first boy only sold one apple, the second boy two, and the third boy three.

Realizing that the price was too high, the first boy decided to get rid of his large stock as quickly as possible, so he disposed of his apples at seven for a cent. The other boys followed him, and the puzzle was solved.

First boy—1 apple for 3 cents; 49
apples at 7 for 1 cent. Total receipts,
19 cents.

Second boy—7 apples at 3 cents; 28
apples at 7 for 1 cent. Total receipts,
19 cents.

Third boy—3 apples at 3 cents each;
16 apples at 7 for 1 cent. Total receipts,
19 cents.

SYNOPSIS
Peter Newhall, Augusta, Ga., flees to Alaska, after being told by Ivan Ishmin, a Russian violinist, he had Crowned Paul Sarichef, Ishmin's secretary, following a quarrel. Ishmin and Peter's wife, Dorothy, had urged him to flee to South America. He joins Big Chris Larson in response to a distress signal at sea, forcing his sea jacket upon him. Their launch hits rocks.

Dorothy receives word that her husband's body, identified by his sea jacket, had been buried in Alaska. She feels free to receive Ishmin's attentions. But Peter had been rescued by another ship. His appearance is completely changed and by some means he finds his identity. He discovers Larson's body occupies his grave.

Dorothy decides to carry Peter's body back to Georgia for burial. Ish-min arranges for a launch with Peter's body for guide and labor. Limejuice Pete is chosen as guide. Ishmin and Dorothy arrive but do not recognize him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
At intervals the rolling shore line gave way to grim and lofty precipices,
the high ranges dropping sharply off
into the sea, and here the waves broke in great unpreaching, shimmering clouds of spray. Beyond these mand-hewn cliffs was a wonderful divide
of sharp, jagged snow-swept peaks.
There was no sign that man had gained a foothold here, never a village or
the high ranges dropping sharply off
into the sea, and here the waves
broke in great unpreaching, shimmering clouds of spray. Beyond these
mand-hewn cliffs was a wonderful divide
of sharp, jagged snow-swept peaks.

Dorothy was aware as she stood at the deck railing that a few days before the guide seemed lost in the fog. The mood that it invoked.
She found herself glancing, from time to time, at his homely, thoughtful face, the broad shoulders, hunched over the railing; and she was aware of something that he was deeply secret ways she knew that he was secretly aware of her presence.
Suddenly he spoke to her and pointed toward the beach.

"Look just to the left of the big white triangular rock," he told her.
"Do you see something moving?"
He pointed at a spot of red.
"Yes—what is it?"
"A fox. We'll see lot of 'em. If you keep your eyes open, we may see caribou, too—they roam here in enormous herds."

He moved nearer to him, and he pointed out things of interest. Once he showed her a flock of beach geese, lifting tall heads from the shore; often half-seen rolled up with the combustion of the sea, and he showed her what he thought to be that most rare of marine animals, a sea otter, playing in a floating bed of kelp. Of sea life there was an abundance—porpoises leaping far off, once the long, dark flag of a herring, chasing salmon in the mouth of a long, deep cut bay.

"Maybe I'll get to show you a Kodiak bear, too," Pete told her. "Then you'll get the thrill of your life."
He showed her the high, glittering Pavlov volcano, one of the most symmetrical mountains in the world, and she felt incredibly glad that the Bradford had selected him for the guide. She saw with pleasure that he was personally immaculate—his blond beard trimmed until it was almost distinguished-looking, his hair combed well back and clean. She had a feeling that should one of the rolling waves rise up and overwhelm
the boat, his would be a strong arm to rescue her. At present, however, the seas were comparatively placid,
and the sky blue overhead.

savage beauty of the land, dressed warmly in smart riding trousers, rubber and leather boots, and a shaggy coat, and the three guides outwardly stolid and businesslike, climbed into the launch and started out.
Pete had already packed a large part of his winter supplies and brought; and the word was given to start. As the crew stood at the davit, "One thing more," Dorothy said.

"Of course." One of the crew immediately brought the precious instrument to his side, not the brilliant Stradivarius, but a beautiful Hornatiner of wonderful, mellow tone.

The boat was lowered, and the three Alaskans took the oars. They headed straight toward the gate behind the reef where the dory of the Daily Beetle had rowed to rescue the battered, bleeding Remittance Man almost two years before.

Nearer view did not in the least invade the deep feeling that this land invited in Dorothy. As she pushed through the deep mist, up the windswept hill, the haunting spirit of the land came back to her as she looked down at the sea, and she felt that this was the land of forgotten men.

CHAPTER VIII
Stranded

Dorothy could scarcely believe her eyes at first. Then she stepped out from her shelter—a slender, appealing figure in the clouds of rain—and called sobbingly, as if her voice would carry out to sea. Then she turned in desperation to the head guide.

FASHION NOTES

WATCH FOB.
The watch fob, which was so popular with the tailor, is very smart now with the coat dress of striped wash silk or silk mohair.

REVERSIBLE COATS.
Reversible coats of black satin and black wool are very practical when cut on very plain, straight lines, since they take care of most of the occasions when one needs a wrap.

FIGURED SILK.
The gown of figured silk, intended for afternoon or evening wear, is frequently clouded by an overdone of thin chiffon following the exact pattern of the gown. This imparts a certain subtlety impossible without toning down the pattern and colors.

EVENING FROCK.
One dainty evening frock for a young girl is made entirely of finely pleated ruffles of petal pink chiffon.

ATTRACTIVE SASH.
An unusually attractive sash is made of a combination of orange, silver, black and brown ribbons.

CRYSTAL NECKLACE.
The crystal necklace for a delicate head is frequently wound twice about the neck.

EMBROIDERY.
Embroidery in copper and silver threads makes very lovely trimming for a gown of black satin.

WHITE HAT.
The all-white hat, small and practically untrimmed, is worn with the all-black costume of satin or crepe.

GRAY LACE.
Silver gray lace is mounted effectively over a sheath of narrow black satin and worn with a scarf of gray tulle.

BLACK PAJAMAS.
Pajamas of black satin are banded with bright colors and frequently the coat is entirely of some vivid flame-colored or green silken fabric.

An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters

LETTER FROM RUTH ELLINGTON TO EDGERTON SANTLEY

DEAR MR. SANTLEY:
I think from your letter that Walter must have written you at the same time he wrote me. I have known for some weeks that he was coming very soon, but he tells me now that he will be here about the 15th of next month.

I really think you have neglected me by not coming over, as when Leslie was in New York last she said that you expected to come. However, I am sure that Walter will bring you when he returns.

The more you know my friend Leslie Prescott, Mr. Santley, the better you will like her. She is the sweetest, sincerest and most loyal woman I have ever known. I do not personally know any of the others of her family, so I cannot know if your estimate of her sister Alice be true, but from what Leslie writes me, I think it is probably so, although, as you say, I think only an Englishman could have made it.

I don't know how much Walter has told you of me. Last time we met, I was married to Mr. Ellington, you know. This morning I received my decree of divorce from him. I am telling you this myself to put myself right in your eyes before you meet me. There will probably be plenty of people very ready to tell you why I obtained this separation.

Thank you for your thought of me in telling me that Walter will be here soon, and believe me

Yours cordially,
RUTH ELLINGTON.

Letter From John Alden Prescott to Sydney Carton:

I don't know what you mean, old fellow, by telling me to watch my step. I don't believe that I stumble any oftener than most men, including yourself. Can't a married man be amused by a clever woman without committing an offense against his wife? Why you old dunderhead, I wish you could see the last letter I wrote to Leslie. It's one of the most fervid love letters I have ever written. I even told her I was jealous of her former sweetheart, and that's going some!

But enough of this. I'll abuse you roundly for it, however, when I see you. You have no reason for bailing me out in this case whatever. I'm a perfectly good husband, and nobody knows that better than myself. I hope when I introduce you to Sally Atherton, she'll bowl you over—you deserve it.

Leslie will be home next week and we'll expect you.

JACK.

Telegram From Sydney Carton to John Alden Prescott.

Please remember that a man usually wears flowers or jewels to his wife after any little peccadilloes. You seem to say it with love letters.

TOMORROW: Letter from Walter Burke to Ruth Ellington.

Richmond Suffers From Severe Wind

RICHMOND, Va., June 6.—A wind-storm of cyclonic proportions accompanied by a cloudburst struck Richmond late tonight, unroofing houses, pulling porches from dwellings, uprooting trees in all sections of the city and doing vast other property damage.

Descending without warning and with a fury unprecedented in this section the wind wrought havoc during the few minutes that it lasted.

Most severe damage was reported from the west end and north side, in many instances traffic in those sections was halted by the debris which collected in the streets.

High voltage wires were broken when trees fell across them and whole blocks of houses were thrown into darkness.

Numerous roofs of dwellings were reported lifted bodily and hurled to the ground, while windows, sashes included, were torn from the houses. Porch furniture was picked up and scattered for blocks. One steel garage was blown across an alley to a resting place on the porch of a house nearly half a block away.

Two automobiles were reported demolished when a falling roof crushed it and the other when it was blown across a street and hurled against a brick school building. Many trees along principal streets were either uprooted or badly damaged.

Telephones were put out of commission and although crops of wire men sent out at once to begin repairing damage, it is thought that service cannot be restored to normal before next week.

A Statement To The Public

Our opponents have charged that a vote for us means increased taxes. This we emphatically deny!

We are, individually and collectively, opposed to any increase in the tax burden.

In order to avoid any increase in taxes we favor a Bond Issue to care for the pressing needs of our schools.

If the Bond Issue is carried and we are elected, we will issue the bonds for the benefit of the school children of Danville.

We further pledge our best efforts to maintain a high degree of efficiency in all branches of our City Government, to work for the interests of ALL our people, and for the City's growth and development.

We shall owe no political debts and therefore, will be free to serve the people as a whole!

Your support and co-operation will be appreciated.

TODAY'S Washington LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Mrs. Coolidge's White House "garden parties" of the past month have provided a delightful antidote to the heavy diet of politics and plum-duff through which Washingtonians have had to live during these last months of a pre-campaign session of Congress.

And whatever else they may have done, they have demonstrated that, should the canny and cautious Cal be sent back for another four years in the executive mansion, Mrs. Cal may be depended upon to make up by her own charm and personality for the social shortcomings of her silent partner.

Cards to Mrs. Coolidge's spring parties have been as much in demand as tickets to the Democratic convention. Any good Washingtonian would cheerfully have forfeited seats to the Cleveland convention, for instance, in exchange for admittance to one of these affairs. And to one who has experienced both conventions and garden parties it must be admitted the lure of the latter is the most enthralling.

Take the latest of these "parties." For instance. Even a dashing thunderstorm which drenched the grounds at the very hour the red-coated marine band was tuning up for the festivities, could not dampen the enthusiasm of the invited guests.

By auto and taxicab, or on foot with raincoats and umbrellas, they came, full strength.

Shifting her plans to suit the weather's whim, Mrs. Coolidge threw open the whole lower floor of the White House, placed the marine band in the great entrance hallway, and carried the affair through without a hitch.

Instead of greeting her guests on the lawn, she and the president snuggled with all comers in the big East Room and bade them "make themselves at home."

The party was a democratic affair, even though Coolidge is a Republican. There were more fedoras and derbies than "plug" hats in the checkrooms. And the plain guests outnumbered the long-tailed "frocks."

Most of the diplomats, of course, and their secretaries and attachés, wore the formal afternoon gowns, by tails. So did diplomat Hughes, by way of being a diplomat himself.

But Jim Davis, secretary of labor, simply put a red carnation in the buttonhole of his business suit and felt all dressed up.

Edwin Denby, former secretary of navy, wearing the business suit of a business man, seemed to enjoy being back under the executive roof. Gen. J. H. Sawyer was there, too, in correct afternoon garb, not in the uniform he so long wore with pride.

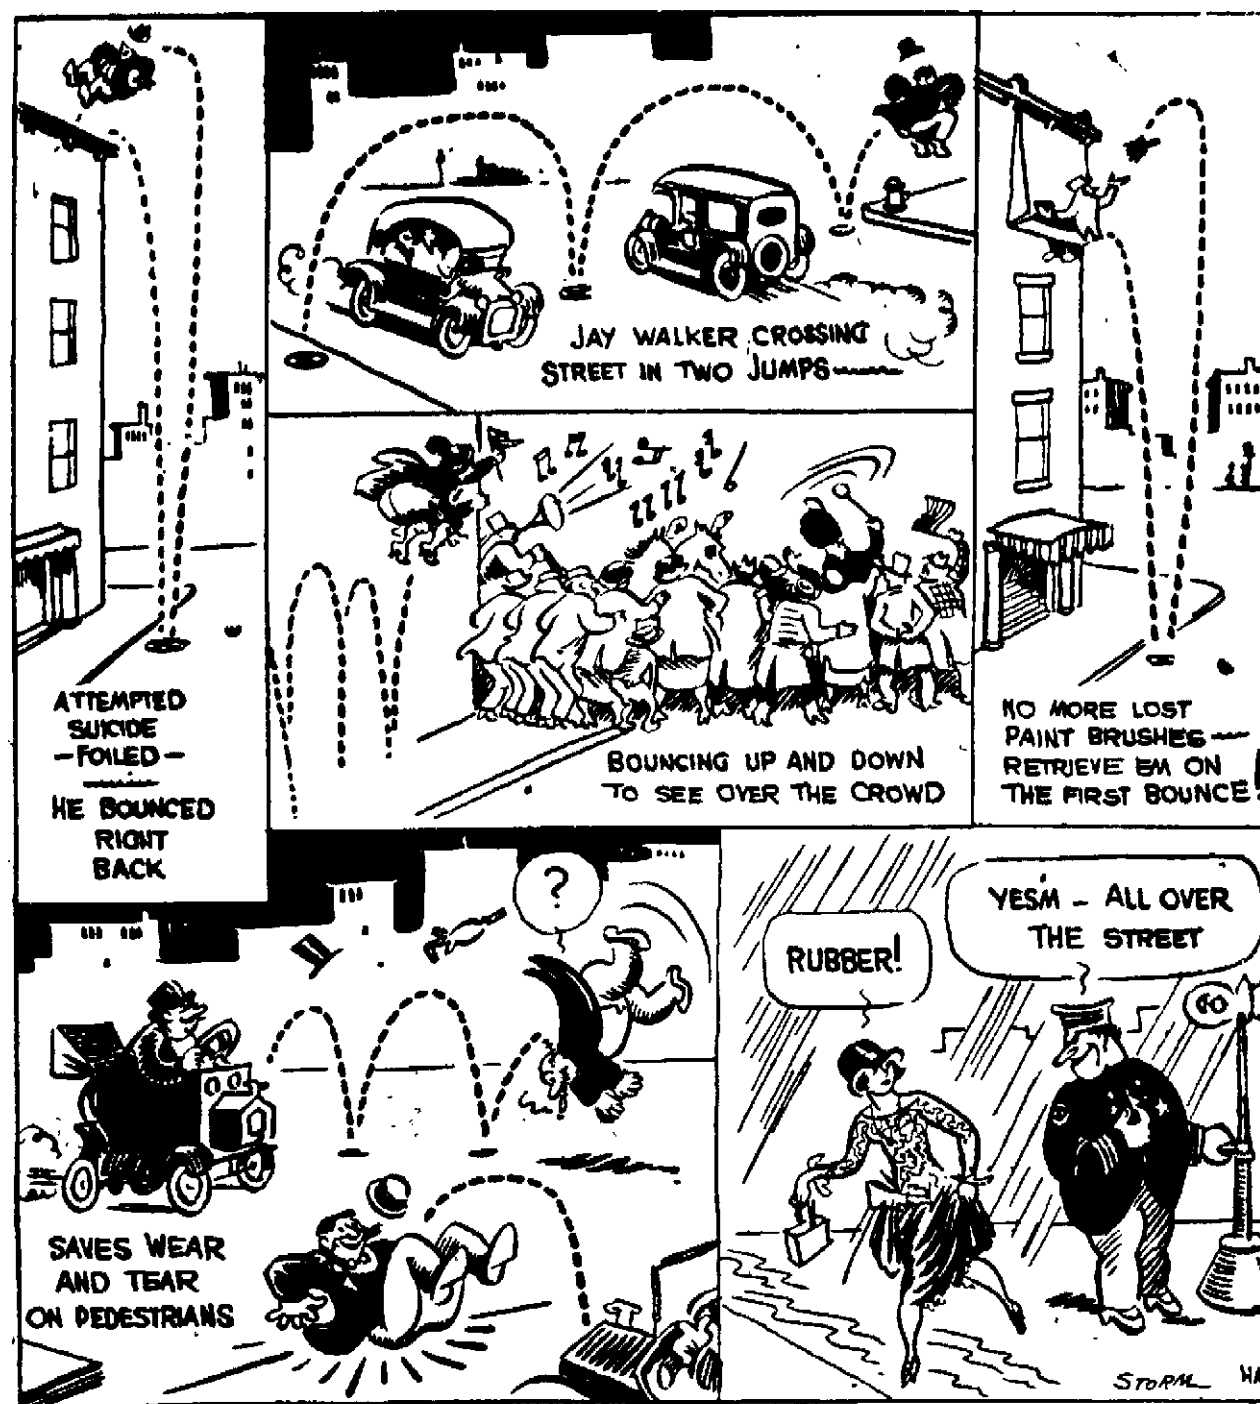

Lady Isabella Howard, wife of the British ambassador, made her first appearance at a large gathering since her arrival in Washington, and was a center of attention. Her dress? Oh, yes: black velvet with touches of purple, and a chinchilla collar.

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of the former Hoosier president, held court near a palm in one corner of the East Room. The older set, who knew her when she presided as First Lady, talked over with her the "good old days."

Harvey Wiley, well past 80, but looking in the middle fifties, was a walking endorsement of his "pure food" theories. Wiley practiced what he preached, and kept away from the punch, cakes and ices which were dispensed in the State Dining Room.

And in and out among the throng, with an air of unmistakable pride and proprietorship, strolled Mr. Frank W. Stearns of Boston.

WORK ON SHOALS DAM WILL BE CONTINUED

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Although the Senate failed to settle the question of final disposition of Muscle Shoals at this session, it was pointed out today that work on the completion of dam number two would be continued by the government.

Provision for continuation of the work is made in the army appropriation bill, which has passed the Senate and House and is awaiting the signature of the president. Seven million dollars was made available immediately for the dam, and $2,040,330 additional can be appropriated for auxiliary expenses.

The text of the clause in the bill pertaining to Muscle Shoals follows: "For the continuation of the work on dam number 2 on the Tennessee River at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, $7,000,000 to be immediately available, and to apply on the contract authorization for this project carried in the war department appropriation act for the fiscal year 1924."

"Provided, that the secretary of war may enter into contract or contracts for such machinery, gates, or other mental parts and for such materials to be used in the construction of the locks and dam power house as may be necessary to complete the said project, to be paid for as appropriations as may from time to time may be made by law, not to exceed in the aggregate $3,040,330 exclusive of the amounts herein and heretofore appropriated."

MONEY RATES EASE OFF

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 6.—Broad buying of United States government bonds, reflecting the employment of a large volume of surplus funds and expanding investment in tax exempt obligations today carried eight active issues to the highest levels of the year. Gains in liberty bonds ranged from 4-32 to 17-32.

Coincident with the brisk advance in liberty bonds came a further ease in money rates. Call money opened at 2 3-4 per cent, the lowest renewal rate in two years and then sagged to 2 1-2 per cent.

At the crest of today's forward movement, liberty 3 1-2's sold at 100.9, second 4's at 100.23; first and second 4 1-4's at 101; first 4 1-4's at 101.1, second 4 1-4's at 100.27; third 4 1-4's at 101.12; fourth 4 1-4's at 101.13 and treasury 4 1-4's at 102.29.

WONDER IF SHE HAS HOME

(By The Associated Press.)
LOS ANGELES, June 6.—Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, retiring president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in session here, said today the federation would not take official cognizance of the remarks yesterday of Rupert Hughes, author, who declared that woman's place was in the home and that censorship was one of the great modern evils. Mrs. Winter declared, however, that despite the writer's statements and advice, the federation would continue its campaign against what it considered objectionable motion pictures.

The retiring president also asserted that the "war against jazz" would go on and she expressed the belief that "the American people as a whole is returning to a normal and natural way of living."

A history maker—and still the Leader!

THE STUDEBAKER Light-Six—a history maker—the first fine six-cylinder car under 3,000 pounds at a four-cylinder price.

A car with followers, imitators and adapters by the score—but with no rival in quality, popularity or sales volume. It is still the Leader!

A car built to fulfill the ideal of producing the greatest automobile value in the $1,000 field—the car which started the stampede from fours to sixes.

A car with a specially designed offset valve motor of remarkable quietness, economy, freedom from vibration—and with tenacious resourcefulness of power on the hills, the straightaway and the pickup!

A car comfortable, roomy, good-looking, very easy to handle on the road, in traffic or in parking—long-lived, low in first cost and especially low in up-keep costs. The market's one best bargain for the man who wants all the car he can get at about $1,000.

A car that is an investment, not an expense, because it can be bought on very liberal terms, sold or traded in at a very high resale value on a market always ready and waiting for a used Light-Six Studebaker—its popularity and demand as a used car are the most convincing evidence of its goodness as an automobile.

Bulls Again Beat Danville; Pointers and Capitals Win

HARRIS HIT HARD AND DURHAM TAKES SECOND STRAIGHT FROM MURPHYS

The Danville baseball team temporarily weakened pending the signing of a new infielder and playing a pitcher in the outfield, was defeated yesterday 9 to 4 by the Durham team.

This was the fourth time Pitcher Harris hit hard and in each case, except yesterday, he was withdrawn after failing to show effective form. Yesterday, however, no other pitcher was available and the management permitted Harris to finish the game after the visitors had pounded out six runs in a batting rally in the fourth inning. With the exception of that inning, the twister was in any good form; but the beans were spilled in that inning, and the team played an up-hill game in which Pitcher Lankau was effective and showed excellent control.

The visitors earned all their runs except the last, though this is only technically true, for the first run scored on a sacrifice bunt by Jones. The Durham team should not have handled Bour's sacrifice bunt, a pop-fly which many thought the boxman might easily have caught. Catcher Ernst could not get to it in time to take the fly, but did retire Bour at first. Had the pop-fly been caught, the easy double play would have resulted.

In the final fourth, Brummitt opened with a two-base rap, Jones was out on a fly to McDonald, but Allen got a base on balls. Then Smith singled, scoring Brummitt; Pierre and Lennox also singled, and then Maloney pounded the ball out of the lot. Bour's sacrifice bunt, which was thrown out trying to steal.

Danville had scored and earned two runs in the third on Ernst's hit, Harris' fielder's choice and another by Regan forcing Harris. Regan's error pitched second, were counted by stealing home when Treffrey worked the delayed steal of second. Treffrey counted on Murphy's single to center. Danville got another run in the seventh on his by Wilson and Imman. Harris sacrificed fly. Treffrey opened the eighth with a three-base drive to extreme left and registered on McDonald's safety to right.

CAPITALS CAPTURE SECOND THROUGH ELLIOTT'S HURLING

RALEIGH, June 6.—The locals got to Littlejohn today for nine hits and six runs while Elliott was holding the Twins to six hits and four runs and captured the second game, making the count one all for the series. Catcher Siner was back in the local line-up after being out for some weeks as the result of being hit on the head by a pitched ball.

Staley robbed the locals of two runs when he made a jumping catch of a line for the final out with Raleigh runners on second and third.

McMahon, the new first sacker of the locals, was credited with one hit, a double, in four times up. He was perfectly. Winston's new shortstop, got one run and no hits out of twice at bat and handled eight chances and booted one infield.

HIGH POINT EVENS SERIES BY BEATING GREENSBORO

(Special To The Register.)

GREENSBORO, June 6.—High Point took the second game of the series from the Patriots here this afternoon, 4 to 2, evening the count on the series, by hitting Ennis hard in the first five innings. After that the right hander settled down and only two Pointers got as far as second base.

Three home runs were had. George Thrasher hit his eleventh of the season in the second inning with no one on. In the fourth Schmidt duplicated George's stunt after two were out and one man on base. Cox cracked out a circuit smash in the seventh with the bases empty.

McMahon's last ball was working well and the Patriots were at his mercy at practically every stage of the game. Only five hits were made off him. Cox's homer was the only extra base hit made by Greensboro.

Alex Gibson has neuritis and will be out of the game for three weeks. Cox is incapacitated with an injured rib, leaving Manager Carroll with only three hurlers. Carroll will probably be worked in tomorrow's game. The box score follows:

The loss of the game was, plainly due to ineffective pitching. The visitors got another run on Maloney's second homer in the seventh, and another on Bour's hit and two errors in the ninth.

Two teams will play again today when Shoaf or McWhirter will probably be sent in to avert the loss of three straight at home. A hard fight will be made for the final game.

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

NEW YORK, June 6.—Foreign stars have passed up the open touring now getting started in Detroit, excepting of course the usual Canadian representation. Not many have come from the Pacific Coast. MacDonald Smith, Abe Espinosa, Dick Lenares and George Kerrigan are the most notable.

Then there are only four amateurs: Bob Jones, the present title holder; Crick Evans, who won the open crown in 1916; Jess Guilford, National amateur champion in 1921, and Darryl Horton, who won the amateur in 1919 at Oakland.

As to Jones repeating, tradition seems to be against it. Not since 1912, when John McDermott, performed the feat, has a champion succeeded on himself. None the less, year in and year out, Jones is at his best in the National open.

Football is still five months away but coaching changes are still going forward rapidly. Charlie Erb, formerly quarter back for the California eleven, has gone to the University of Nevada to succeed R. O. Courtright, now claimed by the Colorado school of mines. Nevada's tie game with the Bears last fall has not been forgotten and evidently Courtright's share in the proceeding registered in Colorado.

Except in the minor sports, where rumors of changes are rife, western conference coaches are all fairly well settled in their jobs.

In the fact that Joe Duggan, guard for the last two years on the University of Chicago basketball team, has been named to Phi Beta Kappa comes a reminder that scholarship of athletes in the midwest has advanced rapidly since the war.

Strict eligibility rules, the virtual abolition of the tramp athlete closer co-operation between coaches and faculties have been factors in this favorable situation. The Big Ten has led the way in all acts designed to lessen the gap between the curricular and extra-curricular affairs; smaller conferences have almost without exception followed.

Nowadays the average coach in the midwest is a member of the college or University faculty; has been respected and asserted everywhere his professional dignity.

Bob Zupke, who plays golf, says that the game is an ecological one-man sport. It tends to individual development only and thus lacks the value of most games.

Albert Cuhel, a Cedar Rapids high school boy, is the track sensation of Iowa just now. He runs 120 high hurdles in 15.1; the 220 low hurdles in 24.7; the quarter in 4.9, and the 440 hurdles in less than 54.

Grandstand Gaff

HARRIS, struck a grain. He was running true to form but instead of being yanked again in that fourth as he has been three before, he was left in to take his own medicine, although it was a bitter dose. In three consecutive games Harris started well and each time was knocked out. It would have been a fourth knockout yesterday but there was no one to relieve him. Even if there had been it would have been a shame to spoil another good pitcher. He deserved the punishment, though he did manage to hold the romping bulls down with only a couple more runs after that fatal fourth.

Two new players are enroute to Danville, as result of Manager Murphy's S. O. Harris called for them. They are an outfielder from the South Atlantic league and an infielder from the Newark club in the International league. Manager Murphy went out on a scouting trip last night, with intent, to bring back the two new players on the way are hardly expected for this afternoon's game but should certainly report in time for Monday's game at Winston.

Murphy is putting forth every effort to strengthen his team before the season gets too far under the bottom. He will spare nothing. Aside from at least four of his pitching staff, none of the others are so good that no other could take his place.

Shoaf will do the pitching this afternoon. His work as a moundman is known as good and with support in the field and a little hitting, he should be able to take the final game with the Bulls.

By the end of next week Manager Murphy expects to have a team in the field making a far better showing than the present one is making.

Charlie Carroll over at Greensboro is also having his troubles. Several men are on the injured or sick list. He has only two pitchers who are able to work now.

Treffrey continues to show steady improvement. He made two brilliant running catches yesterday, both in one inning, when he made all three putouts. He literally robbed Brummitt and Jones of hits by fast running catches. He also saved himself a goose egg in the hit column by slamming out a triple in the eighth inning.

There are some members now on the club now, who with a little more pep and encouragement with the knowledge of a better all-around team, would no doubt be playing much better ball. Their morale is low and hard fighting type, their results would be far different.

In the same category and suggested that it also be ruled out. "The Olympic games," he wrote "should be a great agency promoting mutual respect and good feeling among the nations, and it would be regrettable to eliminate from them anything likely to interfere with the realization of this."

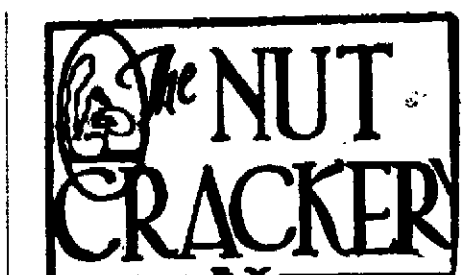

Few persons who read of the "tail team" games, to be held in Dublin next August, knew anything about the history of these games, or realize that they are probably the oldest athletic games in the world. One British author dates their back as far as 1823 B. C.

The great hero of these games was named Setana, but he was known better as "the hound of the eucharist" because of one of his exploits. It seems that Setana was playing at a game similar to hockey when the train of a feudal chieftain passed by the field. The chieftain, admiring Setana's prowess, invited him to join his train. Setana refused, because the game was not finished and he wanted to finish it.

The train master on and presently came to the castle of another feudal baron, where it stopped. The chieftain was seated at the banquet table with his host when the company was startled by the baying of the hound which guarded the castle. Suddenly the hound ceased.

Rushing outside they found Setana, who had finished his game and followed the chieftain, standing over the body of the hound, which he had slain with his bare hands. This delighted everybody but the owner of the dog, who proposed to put Setana to death.

The youth, however, talked him out of this determination by offering to guard the castle in the hound's place until one of its whelps grew up to take his place. Thus he acquired his title.

WEATHER RULES NEW ORLEANS EXCHANGE

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, June 6.—It was a weather market in cotton today and prices fluctuated in keeping with the weather and crop news, alternately receding and rallying as the advices proved favorable or otherwise. July continued to be influenced largely by liquidation of the long interest. The general trend of new crop deliveries was upward. After opening at a moderate gain July weakened under renewed liquidation and undoing of straddles until it traded as low as 28.19 or 24 points below the previous close. October and new crop months generally opened slightly higher but eased off a favorable weather map. October trading down to 2500 and December 2480 or 3 to 7 points not lower. All months rallied sharply when an official forecast for general showery weather accompanied by cooler weather was issued. July traded up to 2862, October 2842 and December 2520 or 32.42 and 40 points respectively up from the low. The market then fluctuated within the previous range and although July lost more than it gained, new crops rallied well in the late trading. The close showed a net loss for the day of 17 points on July, but net gains of 14 to 17 points on new crop positions. At the start Liverpool was about as due and there were some private reports of rains which caused a slightly higher opening. The map showed little rain and higher temperatures and exerted a bearish influence but when the barometer began to show probability of rain and cooler weather, the decline was checked and the official forecast for general showers led to a good rally.

COTTON RALLIES ON NEWS BAD WEATHER

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 6.—Prospects for a renewal of unsettled weather in the south brought rallies from an early decline in the cotton market today but they were not fully maintained. October sold up from 2883 to 2825 and closed at 2803. The general market closed steady at a decline of ten points on July, from 16 to 25 points net higher on later deliveries.

The market opened steady at a decline of 3 points to an advance of 9 points and sold up a point or two right after the call on relatively steady Liverpool cables, increased Liverpool spot sales and private reports of showers in the southwest. This advance was halted by a renewal of July liquidation which weakened the market during the afternoon. July sold off to 2810, or 40 points net lower, and December 2807 or 8 points net lower.

As soon as offerings of July had been absorbed however, the market rallied on bullish week-end figures and the weather outlook. July advanced to 2862 and December to 2582, but the close was about 20 points off from the best under renewed liquidation.

AVERETT COLLEGE

Offers:

- 1. Two years of college work.
- 2. A four-year high school course.
- 3. Special courses in Art, Commercial and Secretarial Training, Expression, Home Economics, Piano, Violin and Voice.

The total attendance has advanced as follows:

1921-22 203 (with Primary Department)

1922-23 213 (half Primary Department)

1923-24 247 (Primary Department entirely abolished.)

College and High School departments standardized and accredited. A $45.00 scholarship is given Virginia boarding students, except ministers and missionaries, who are given a larger consideration.

The College Department is rigidly separated from the High School. During the 1923-24 session the High School principalship was established. For the 1924-25 session a further advance is being made by adding a teacher to the high school faculty and enlarging the high school curriculum.

A splendid citizen recently inquired if Averett College offers accredited work of college grade. Averett offers two years of college work, thoroughly standardized as to faculty, equipment and curriculum. Graduates of the four-year high schools of the city and county can pursue two years of college work and receive the full Averett diploma without having to be far from home and without incurring heavy expense made necessary by attending a distant college.

Write or phone for our 1924-25 catalogue and new forty-page pamphlet on Averett. This pamphlet quotes interesting letters from Dr. W. T. Senter, Secretary of the State Board of Education, Dr. F. W. Boatwright, President of the University of Richmond, and Dr. Chas. E. Brewer, President of Meredith College. Both the catalogue and the pamphlet are illustrated.

RADIO WEDDINGS MAY RESULT IN RADIO DIVORCES

BY ROBERT T. SMALL

(Copyright, 1934, by The Bee.)

NEW YORK, June 7.—The loudest "I do" that the world has ever heard went bounding over the ether as Wendell Hall, the singer, was married to Miss Marion M. Martin, a Chicago newspaper writer.

The wedding was broadcast as far and as wide as a presidential speech and probably was listened to by a million or more fans of the air. Not only did the ether do its full share in carrying the many pledges of the groom but that gentlemen uttered the words in a resounding bass voice which fairly shook the transmitting microphone and caused many a loud speaker the country over to rattle and roar.

And then came the bridegroom's kiss to the bride. That, also, was broadcast and it was a much-told all the world what an enthusiastic kiss it was. The best time would not have been had by all. If the groom had not made a little speech after the ceremony. What he said was that all the world assumed full of sunshine and he was absolutely certain that time that it was never going to rain "no mo'."

The big radio wedding simply had to come. Couples have been married in balloons, in airplanes, in Zeppelins, down in the quins in the brink of Niagara, in a lion's den, in a racing automobile, on the cowcatcher of an engine and most recently there was a wedding with the principals and the preacher dangling by their waists at the ends of long ropes suspended from a sky scraper. So why not the wedding where all the world could hear even if it could not see?

The ceremony was arranged by WEAF, the main station of the Bell Telephone System. Linked up with WEAF was WCAP at Washington, WJAR at Providence, R. I., and WGNA at Chicago. The first three named stations are the regular hook-up of the Bell System, when a message from President Coolidge is to be transmitted by radiophone to the people. So Mr. and Mrs. Hall were certain of a distinguished audience for their unique nuptials. No feature of the wedding was missing and it came over the air in such a realistic manner that undoubtedly many women in the radio audience exercised their time-honored right to shed a few tears as the organ began the professional "here comes the bride."

Miss Martin was crowned in lacey bridal dress with orange blossoms in her hair and carried a huge bouquet. Mr. Hall, the "red-haired music maker" was in informal evening clothes. The officiating minister, the Rev. Fins S. Idleman, pastor of the First Christian church of this city, read the service in an impressive manner and as he finally led in prayer there was a reverent hush in the transmitting studio as there must have been over every radio group which was listening.

There was no promise to obey in any part of the ceremony, but all other nuptial vows were exchanged and before probably the greatest audience that ever listened to a ceremony, a real station of WEAF is figuring today on how it can broadcast a divorce. That would seem to be the next step in the development of the new art.

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK RATHER PESSIMISTIC

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, June 6.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"While warmer weather in a few states, mostly at the south, had made for slightly better crop progress and for a more cheerful trend of reports as to retail trade, the great majority of advices testifies to the late backward spring, within most areas rainy weather still retarding retail trade, crop work and growth and building in the northwestern quarter of the country, dry weather is complained of in many states, but accompanied here, too, by low temperatures. Hence, retail trade is not quite fair; that is, it is well below a year ago and also is jobbing and wholesale distribution. Industry, outside of building, and the latter, by the way, in many cities, tends to lag. Crop reports, owing to the late season, are not equal to year ago. Measures of movement thus far available for may indicate a slight gain in clearings, but lessened mail-order trade, reduced outputs of automobiles and pig iron, the sixth successive decline in commodity prices, and increased failures and liquidations as compared with May a year ago."

The REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE

DANCER

Pavlova's salary for dancing is $10,000 a week. It's disclosed in a lawsuit.

She's overtaking the world's highest paid dancer—Mel Ran-Tan, the Chinaman. He gets $250 a night and in a country where unskilled labor is paid about 18 cents a day.

Mel Ran-Tan is only 24. He dances masquerading as a woman. Spurns all offers to show in America. Critics claim he is the finest dancer in history. We'd always credited Chinese with being very wise. But it seems they, too, pay higher for educated feet than educated heads.

SUCCESS

The Chinese dancer, Mel Ran-Tan, is paid $15,000 a week, yet he's only 24. Here's phenomenal success. Yet we doubt that he rose by exceptionally hard work, saving his pennies or not watching the clock.

No, the hokum rules don't hold for Mel Ran-Tan.

His success is due to a special gift. And we have a sneaking notion this explains most American business successes, regardless of what they tell the interviewers. They have the gift of money-making, which is born in a man and cannot be acquired any more than top-notch dancing.

COURAGE

The first New York movie theater of opera house size and with a complete orchestra instead of a lone piano player or electric organ was the Mark Strand. That took courage, for other managers predicted failure.

The Mark Strand is still doing business with 50 orchestra men and has record of 60 million paid admissions.

This illustrates the value of other people's opinions.

TWENTY-SEVENTH ARTICLE

What Tax-Exempt Securities Really Mean.

We hear a good deal of talk about tax exempt securities and tax exemption. Many people, however, do not know just what is meant in either case. A tax exempt security is one the income from which, that is to say the interest, is not subject to federal or state income taxes. All state and municipal bonds, Federal Land Bank bonds, stock and bonds of the U. S. Savings Bonds and the U. S. Treasury bonds come within this classification.

Now this tax exemption is of value to the investor in direct proportion to the size of his income. The larger the income the more tax he must pay for tax exemption. It follows that these bonds are in demand by very wealthy persons. Some of them go so far as to put their entire capital into this class of security. The result is that they pay no income taxes at all. It has been argued that further issue of tax-exempt securities should be prohibited and this source of refuge for large tax payers should be eliminated. So far congress has declined to take this view.

States and cities can sell their bonds on much more favorable terms because they are tax exemption is of no importance to the small investor. However, that may be tax exemption is of no importance to the small investor. It is of importance to the larger investor for his money in a taxable bond even when the amount of taxes he has to pay is deducted from the return. It is probably true that even some large investors buy more tax exempt securities than they really need. Investment houses have carefully worked out tables showing for investors of varying incomes the difference between the prices to be paid for taxable and non-taxable bonds in order that the net return may be the same.

Unless you are subject to surtaxes it is unnecessary to pay any attention to tax exemption. This, however, is not to reflect in any way upon the rating of tax-exempt securities which is very high. In the matter of safety they come at the head of the list. The point is that investors of large means must have this kind of investment and so the price is out of proportion to that asked for taxable bonds.

Sport Clothes Hit With Women

(Copyright, 1934, by The Bee.)

NEW YORK, June 7.—Sports for the moment hold the center of fashion's stage and the old sporting jacket, "play or pay" is bringing increased receipts to the purveyors of women's wear in consequence. For today practically every woman buys sport clothes. If she does not play herself, she pays to see others play.

As a consequence the knitted frocks, sweeds and flannels are in the heyday of their glory. Many of the knitted suits in silk and silk and wool are of the wrap-around type, the skirts opening on the side. As is both sensible and proper, the costumes are designed along extremely plain straight lines, the skirts and jackets both moderately short.

This restraint, however, does not apply to colors. No tricks of stage-lighting have produced more varied and beautiful color effects than have been shown at the Olympic contests held so far in Paris, the British exposition events at Wembley and the regattas, ball games and track contests in America this year.

Following continue favorites in both one-piece frocks and suits, and similar designs are being worn in woolen and wool and silk sport hose.

In the flannels, wool and silk krepes, socks and slacks are frequently seen.

So Writes Mrs. Trembley of Sharon, Vt., Concerning Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sharon, Vermont.—"I was weak and run-down, had a tired feeling and bearing-down pains. I saw an advertisement in the newspaper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began taking it. It has stopped these bearing-down pains and other bad feelings, and has helped me in every way. I have so much faith in the Vegetable Compound that I keep it on hand all of the time and recommend it whenever I have the opportunity."—Mrs. LEWIS THOMLEY, Sharon, Vermont.

Glad to Help Others

"I had pains in my back and sides for many months, and my work would have to be left undone at the times. My sister told me what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing her, so I tried it, and from the third bottle I was well and every one thought I looked better. I am glad to help others regain their health, and you may see my testimonial."—MABEL HARTMAN, 1824 Greene Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y.
